TO THE BALD HEADED,

AND all who would have a fine flowing head of hair Never till lately did we believe that there was any thing that would restore hair on bald heads but the proof that we have seen that OLDRIDGE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA from Comstock & Co's 52 Cornhill will do it is incontestible We have seen a friend, who is seventy years of age, and was for twenty years perfectly bald who has had his hair restored with this balm and numerous instances of a similar kind have lately come to our notice which induces us to recommend it to all who are losing their hair For our part we would not be without this balm on any account [Democrat

LORAINE'S PILLS:

OR

VALUABLE UNIVERSAL MEDICINE, CURATIVE,

OF THE

French College of Health, in Paris.

THESE Pills are now acknowledged by thousands who take them daily to be the only medicine that fairly takes the Banner from all others This Extraordinary Medicine has actually done WONDERS within one year past all over the inhabited world where it has been introduced They cause no pain or uneasiness, of any kind in their operation and require neither change of diet or care of any kind

The attention of the readers is respectfully called to the following important results from the use of these Pills It will be seen however great achievements have heretofore been made by the use of this invaluable medicine —still greater and more remarkable cures daily happen

SWELLING OF THE BODY FROM HEAD TO FOOT CURED

Boston (Mass) March 10 1844

SIR —About a year since I was taken severely ill with a swelling of the body from head to foot, so that I was entirely helpless The doctor advised me to go to the Hospital, for he said he did not understand my case The persuasion of friends induced me to try Dr Loraine's Vegetable Pills which in a few days produced a great change in my system by increasing the natural discharges causing my appetite relieving the pain, removing the swelling and giving me strength and a perfect cure

MARY JANE FRANCIS

A SEVERE PAIN IN BOTH SIDES CURED

Lowell (Mass) April 20 1844

Sir—For the last few months I have been afflicted with a severe pain in both sides at times so hard that I could scarcely get my breath * * * It is a pleasure to feel well—but a much greater one to say that I was cured immediately upon taking 1 dose of Dr Loraine's Pills — J BROOKS

A HACKING COUGH CONSTANTLY ANNOYED ME.

Boston (Mass) June 1 1844

Sir —In February last I took a sudden cold after which a hacking cough constantly annoyed me, and this combined with my other maladies rendered me truly miserable as every body told me that I was in a consumption Since I have taken Loraine's Pills and now every body tells me that I am well,—I feel as well as ever I did

[illegible] was present [illegible]

[illegible] Mr Bowers [illegible]

At the hour appointed, Susan made her call upon the family of Mr May and heard from him e narrative of the proceedings of the last night. She had never allowed herself to entertain the slightest suspicion of the rectitude of her father, and to know that he had acquired the habits of a gambler and was fast becoming a drunkard, seemed to congeal the life blood within her.—But she felt that it was best to know the worst, and therefore listened patiently to all the circumstances, and when Mr May had concluded, in the deep anguish of her soul she exclaimed,

'My Father, my Father is indeed lost.'

'Perhaps not,' returned Mr May 'God may yet bless means for his restoration. He is as yet unconscious of his own state, or that your Mother has the slighest suspicion of his departure from the path of rectitude, while he feels within his own mind that it is a departure.'

'Then you think a full disclosure should be made to him, Mr May,' said Susan, as a new hope sprung up in her heart and reflected itself in her countenance, 'But how shall it be done?' she continued.

'Your own interest, Susan, in the case, and your good sense, with the facts you now have, will best furnish the answer.' The work is for you, like an angel of mercy, to perform. My name may be freely used and my aid at any time demanded.'

'Have you seen Father to day?' asked Susan.

'I have not. He started with me last night, but concluded to return instead of accompanying me home.'

'And there he probably is still, and I will go at once' she said, at the same time rising and persuade him to go home.'

Mr May, feeling much anxiety in the case and unwilling that Susan should be exposed, in such a place, even in the day time, accompanied her to the place.

On arriving at Fortune's Court Mr May ascended the stairs and entered. He noticed apparent confusion and soon discovered that some one was lying upon a couch, spread upon the floor, while two or three persons were bathing his head and limbs.

Susan timidly entered and advanced toward the couch until she saw the hair of her father, wet and fallen back over the top his head, when she fainted and fell.

Remedies were immediately applied for her restoration. This confusion arrested the attention of Mr Jones, and he in a faint and suppressed voice, inquired the cause.

The tone of his voice seemed to bring Susan to consciousness, and in the agony of despair she exclaimed 'My Father!' and crept to the couch, and buried her head in the pillow close to his face, and sobbed like a child.

'Susan' he at length whispered 'I fear I shall never recover from the injuries I received by this fall. I wish to be got home where I may see your mother before I die.'

From this moment Susan forgot her own sorrows and arousing herself, commenced at once her devoted attention to her parent.

Every known remedy was applied and the gentle attentions of Susan seemed to assuage the pains of the sufferer. It appeared that in returning to the chamber the previous night, after going out with Mr May, Mr Jones mistook the passage and stumbled down the stairs leading off in an opposite direction from those by which he had ascended. He was too much injured to get up, and there he had remained, tortured with pain from internal injury, until broad day light.

Remainder to morrow.

☞ The Bangor "Democrat" states that the whigs in this city had circulated the report that the object of the late meeting was to censure Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, and then says: "No one attempted, nor so far as we know and believe, designed or wished to pass a resolution of censure upon any one."

This may be true so far as relates to the "knowledge" and belief of the editor of the Democrat, but we heard one of the petitioners for the meeting declare that he wished the meeting called to censure Mr. Hamlin and let him know that the democracy of Bangor disapproved his vote.

The letter of Mr. Jason Weeks copied into our columns yesterday shows that he so understood the matter. The attempt of the Democrat to put the whigs in the wrong utterly fails. The editor of that paper had better look among the mass of his own party a little to ascertain public opinion before he makes himself so very flush with his "knowledge" and "belief."

☞ The little red "Nosey" of the Democrat is referred to the statement of Mr. Jason Weeks for the number who voted at the loco indignation meeting, 30 in the affirmative, 20 in the negative. We have no where stated that the meeting was a small one, nor for a moment desired to give such an impression. The meeting we thought a large one, but for so large a meeting, that the vote was a small one. Has "Nosey" sense enough to understand this?

☞ A Friend has shown us a letter from a large commercial house at Smyrna dated Nov 22 from which we make the following extract:

"I see with pleasure that as you predicted it [illegible] is going to have the Presidency. It is, [illegible] by all sensible men and by all merchants."

Our trade with Smyrna is one mutually beneficial and by which many of our manufactured goods find a market, while we obtain from thence, [illegible], wool, and many necessary articles of raw material. This short extract shows in what estimation Mr Clay is held in that country, where the inquiry would be made in vain, "Who is James K. Polk?"

Concert—this Evening.

The Concert this evening by the Harmoneon [illegible] at the City Hall will be worthy the attention of all our citizens who relish good singing. The testimonials these accomplished singers bring with them are exceedingly numerous [illegible] from the highest authority, in such matters, in New England.

Notice of Prof. Goodwin's Lectures.

Professor Goodwin's lectures, last week, were a treat to the lovers of the Lyceum. The first, upon the character and writings of Machiavelli, presented that distinguished personage in a similar light, to that in which Macauley places him, as to his own, moral standard of conduct—thus doing, as these authors deem, a late justice to the man, who has been associated with all that is false and hollow, in diplomacy, whose name, even, has added another synonym to our language—standing for duplicity and cunning. If any refuse to be convinced that this later judgment, is the true one; at least, we think they who have heard Prof. Goodwin's lecture will not deny that there are two sides to the question.

By some of his hearers, the lecturer has been termed indiscreet, in approving of Machiavelli's instructions—as being well adapted to their end. The old maxim that, 'Honesty is the best policy,' was fairly disproved, quite to the dismay of some of his hearers. But 'tis surely a narrow view of discretion, which think it better to deceive men with false promises, than to let them see clearly, the path before them. Can that be a lofty discretion, which thinks men can be won to the right, by withholding truth, and placing a cheat before them? The rewards of right conduct, are everlasting, and cannot fail. Let us not think we add to them, by stealing from the devil, the 'kingdoms of this world and the glory of them,' for those we are expressly told, belong to him, and I believe, are no where promised to the christian.

Then let us not urge men to be honest, because it is the best policy, and will lead to preferment,—but tell them at once, what their experience will soon tell them, if you do not, that wile and cunning, will lead to preferment, and that honesty leads to God! If any one could doubt which the lecturer would have his hearers choose—Machiavellian art, or plain honesty, they could not have listened to his thrilling appeal to the consciences of his hearers, when showing them the two paths, one of which, they must choose, and if he made the wily path attractive, to any one, they heard not, as we heard. How long will it be, before the world will be willing, that all the false props of religion, shall be thrown aside by our teachers—and that she shall stand forth as God has made her? We are tired of hearing ministers of the gospel, called indiscreet, because they tell the truth!

If one would suppose, from the general disapprobation, with which the lecturer regarded the practice of political art, that he would leave all the concerns of State to bad men, it was rather from the absence of any assertion to the contrary, than that any such doctrine was intended, by the lecturer, for though he proved that honesty was not the best road to preferment, he by no means taught, that honest men, were not sometimes called without improper effort on their own part, to be placed at the helm of government,—witness Washington.

Prof. Goodwin's second lecture, upon American civilization as compared with European, was perhaps more calculated to instruct a popular audience here than the first. Our ears are ever open, when ourselves are the theme. He began by defining civilization, and after speaking of many things, in themselves good, but not belonging exclusively to civilization—such as good manners and freedom, which may be found, the one in savage life, the other in the tent of the Saracen. He stated national civilization, to consist in the perfections to which it had carried. Commerce, Literature and the Arts—particularly the Fine Arts—which as they were the worship of beauty in all its forms, furnished the best proof of Civilization. The civilization of the individual he defined differently, and said the essence of that consisted in a certain enlargement of soul, a liberality of mind which looked with interest upon the whole race of man—and aimed to promote the good of all. A harmonious adaptation of the wants of man to the external world, is the heart and cream of civilization, according to the lecturer.

American civilization he defended from the miserable aspersions which British travelers, as a class, have put upon it; and the narrowness, and bigotry, of the English mind—their openness to censure as a nation, was shown up by a caustic hand; yet our own deficiencies were not glossed over, but plainly shown. Often as the tale has been told, of the position which we occupy, as a free nation, in the eyes of all Europe, with both the lovers, and haters of freedom, it has seldom, we think, been more impressively told; nor could one easily come away without a more serious feeling than usual, of the duties of an American citizen, or without offering one prayer of hope, that all, to us entrusted, might not fail in our keeping.

A severe castigation, of that portion of our newspaper press, which is conducted, with total indifference to truth and morality, seeking only to furnish something that will sell; regardless of the pernicious influence, it may exert, was well worth the attention of all editors and readers, who would not willingly deserve, such censure. It some are found, who will term the lecturer for this, an enemy of the freedom of the press, and there are those who think it, always tyrannical, to call men to account, for bad conduct—yet all true lovers of their country, will rejoice when truth is spoken—and will pray that it may have its due weight, in forming public opinion. We have a class of minds among us so much accustomed to the sugar plum sentiments of 4th of July orators, that they cannot bear the wholesome, vigorous thoughts of a mind, who having had the opportunity of judging of foreign countries, and having reflected seriously on the defects of our own, gives us the result of his studies, with a frank and manly, plain dealing. If one is found, bold enough to allow other countries and institutions, their just merits, and to speak plainly to us, of our defects—lo! the outcry—

"Tray Blanche and Sweetheart!"

When will such shallow pates, hold their tongues? If such are lovers of our country—"Save us from our fiends!"

Yet with all our faults, the lecturer found no difficulty in giving the preference to his own country, with her youth, her freedom, and her boundless activity her limitless capabilities, and the more equal diffusion of her blessings—over the selfish, worn-out, lifeless and time trammelled monarchies of Europe. Not in thus imitating the tone of certain traveled Americans, who see nothing, on their return home to admire—scarcely to recognize, so congenial have they suddenly become, to foreign society and manners; while so often is their admiration of them, expressed—so great their longing for them again, that we join in nothing so heartily as that they should immediately return to the home of their new adoption.

The lecture closed with a strong appeal to elevate the Ideal, and the Poetry in life—a thorough classical education was insisted on, somewhat against the principles laid down by John Neal, in the opening lecture of the Lyceum.

The literary exertion, and the clear, distinct delivery of the lectures, were, what might have been expected from their source. One passage, however, in the first lecture, if we might venture an opinion, seemed open to criticism—Was not the description of the Demagogue, taken more from the scholar's knowledge of books, than from his experience in real life?

We failed to recognize the portrait, drawn in the lecture, or to apply it to those truckling, Machiavellian politicians, which our own streets may show us any day, in more or less numbers.

The lectures were long—too long, had they been less excellent, for the uncomfortable seats which the hearers occupied. A new Lyceum Hall is a desideratum in our city, which another year will, we hope, supply. *

Court Courier.

District Court.

Yesterday morning the Court held a short session for the purpose of hearing motions and disposing of other business before them. Being unable to complete the same on account of his continued indisposition, the Judge further adjourned the Court until the first Tuesday (being the first day) of April next.

BY LAST NIGHT'S MAIL.

The following is Mr Benton's Bill for the Annexation of Texas—

A Bill to provide for the Annexation of Texas to the United States.

Be it enacted, &c., That a State, to be formed out of the present Republic of Texas, with suitable extent and boundaries, and with two Representatives in Congress until the next apportionment of representation, shall be admitted into the Union, by virtue of this act, on an equal footing with the existing States, as soon as the terms and conditions of such admission, and the cession of the remaining Texan territory to the United States, shall be agreed upon by the Governments of Texas and the United States.

Sect. 2. And be it further enacted, That the sum of one hundred thousand dollars be and the same is hereby appropriated, to defray the expenses of missions and negotiations to agree upon the terms of said admission and cession, either by treaty to be submitted to the Senate, or by articles to be submitted to the two Houses of Congress, as the President may direct.

The particular merits of this Bill over Mr Milton Brown's joint resolutions we cannot discover, but its demerits are clear in every clause.

It is not improbable, however, that this evasive and general annexation will catch all the loose Loco Foco Senators, and going back to the House, be carried there too. If it has much Whig help in the Senate, it will pass there.

[Cor N. Y. Express]

Wreck of Schr. Reeside and supposed loss of all on board.

The schooner Reeside, Capt. Langley, from Boston for New York, was ashore on Long Island, N. Y. A letter from Chas. H. Jones, agent of the New York underwriters, at Cold Spring Harbor, dated 7th Feb., says—

"A vessel has gone to pieces on Lloyd's Neck—her stern has come on shore; her cargo drifting about, which consists partly of dry goods, boots and shoes, and wine. Her name appears to be the Reeside. Her crew are supposed to be lost. She appears to have first struck on Eaton's Neck, and drifted to the westward. I shall go on the Neck immediately, to look after the property."

The Reeside appears, it is said, from the shore to have been badly wrecked, and as there is no appearance of men on board, and none have come on shore, it is feared that the crew have perished.

☞ The Washington Correspondent of the New York Express states on what is considered good authority that Mr Polk has decided to select one member of his Cabinet from New England, and that there is a strong probability the choice will fall upon the Hon. Robert Rantoul, of Massachusetts.

☞ The safe of the N. Y. Tribune establishment was dug out of the ruins of the late fire on Thursday afternoon. It was red hot when taken, but all the books and valuable papers were found uninjured.

☞ On Saturday in the Legislature of this State the bill chartering the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Rail Road Campany passed to be engrossed.

☞ The packet Ship Sheffied ashore at Oyster Bay near New York had a cargo of Iron, Chalk, Linseed and Mill Stones. Crew safe.

☞ The New York Express says that Rev. Mr Hanos, of this city, is editing a volume of European Literature, to appear in the same series with Griswold's and Longfellow's books.

CONGRESS.

Washington, Feb. 5.

In the Senate, Mr Benton introduced his bill for the annexation of Texas—Refused to refer to committee on Foreign Relations, and laid over as Mr. B. desired.

The Post Office bill was considered until adjournment.

In the House, the Land bill and Indian appropriation bill were considered.

Washington Feb 6.

In the Senate, the Postage bill was taken up, and so amended as to establish a uniform rate of postage at FIVE CENTS. It was carried by a vote of 33 to 44. The franking privilege is abolished, and the clause prohibiting Private Expresses struck out. The bill will pass in this form, if at all.

In the House the subject under debate was the Indian Appropriation Bill. Mr Giddings made some remarks upon a provision of the bill which looked to the payment for the use of the services for slaves. This led to an excited personal and really disgraceful debate and a threat and insult by Mr Black of Georgia. Mr G. was cool and decisive.

☞ The Baptist Meeting house in Norway Village, containing a bell and an organ was consumed by fire a few days since, also a dwelling house owned by Mr. William Brown.

☞ We commence on our first page to day the publication of a 'Story' written for the monthly contribution of the Mechanic Association and read at the last meeting.

☞ TO THE Citizens of Bangor.

A BASE attempt has been made by a fellow in Boston to call attention to some little ready-made clothing he wishes to palm off upon the people of Maine, by abusing the popular clothing establishment known as the

Main Pillar of Oak Hall,

Which is confessedly an ornament and credit to the city in which it is established, and where it is supported by men of all professions and callings of life.

Those in want of any article of

Ready-Made CLOTHING,

Of superior excellence and unrivalled cheapness will understand that the

MAIN PILLAR OF OAK HALL

Now in the full tide of success in the Queen City of Bangor, has given such a multitude of good bargains to the people of Maine, that Boston Warehouses feel the effect upon their trade, and this fellow of a Simmons, whose vile notice appears among the advertisements of the Bangor papers, seems to think that even his limited trade can be revived and extended if he can only pour out abuse upon Bangor Enterprise & Trade!

And crush the great Eastern Depot of Fashionable

READY-MADE CLOTHING,

Where the whole people of this State may be furnished with every desirable style of GARMENT for Man or Boy.

The Proprietor of the only true MAIN PILLAR OF OAK HALL in New England would especially call the attention of an intelligent and discriminating public to the libelous advertisement of George W. Simmons, that they may see how far low breeding and a spirit of envy will lead a wretch to falsify facts and make himself the scorn of the community. The notice which bears his name should be a warning to every man to avoid him and all connected with him as they would the foul breath of a pestilence. When a man's merits are reduced to the low point of calumny and detraction of business establishments, in which success is made certain by fair dealing, upright conduct, low prices, cash payments and strict attention, he is fit only to be used as a foot ball in the community.

Honorable men everywhere will understand that the character of a fellow who can resort to these means is in every part exposed, and if the work was not disagreeable could be shown up as a mass of pollution whose pestilential taint would shock the moral sense of all. But this work is unnecessary. His envy betrays his weakness. His want of judgment has led him to reveal his lack of sense and of honest principles. He has deposited the antidote where he intended the poison only should appear.

Come One, Come All

And furnish yourselves with garments at unprecedentedly low prices at the genuine

Main Pillar of Oak Hall,

Known throughout the country as the best and cheapest and most popular and reliable establishment for the sale of fashionable and substantial garments in New England. Neither competition, nor malice will succeed in crushing the reputation, honor and success of the Peoples' favorite

MAIN PILLAR OF OAK HALL, CITY OF BANGOR.

PARTICULAR NOTICE TO THE Citizens of Bangor and vicinity.

☞ In justification to myself, although I feel I am meddling with the dirtiest of water, ☜

One WILLIAM G. BADGER who opened a little petty Clothing Shop in your city that has just exploded leaving nothing behind him but the stolen name

'OAK HALL,' CITY OF BOSTON,

As I have no agency in any part of the U. States, nor ever had, although this said Badger has tried his best to make your citizens believe it. But like every one that has not brains enough to invent an Original Idea, takes the mean, contemptible way this said Wm. G. Badger has adopted which has been frowned down in your enlightened city and vicinity as it should be, never to come to light again. Perchance it may revive and breathe a few times more, but the fresh and invigorating aid of your native city of Bangor will be too pure for such a contemptible fellow to live long, and the more he struggles in such an unjust cause the deeper he will sink in the mire, until at last he buries himself. The Original, Real and Only

"OAK HALL," CONTINUES IN FULL TIDE OF SUCCESS LIKE THE MIGHTY RUSH OF WATERS OF NIAGARA,

Bearing every thing on in its course. Visited by thousands of individuals unable to gain admittance!

For the many favors I have received from the citizens of Bangor and vicinity please accept my most grateful thanks.

IMPROVED PATENT Lever Railway Pres.

THIS Press excels all others now in use for Pressing Hay, Cotton, Hemp, Wool, Hops, Rags, &c &c. and will be warranted to perform well and do double the work that any other press can with the same number of hands, with less than half the draught, a small boy can attend the horse, and the running back of the follower with perfect ease. The time required in running up the follower is fifteen seconds. At ordinary all day work, seven or eight bales can be pressed per hour—Bales of hay can be pressed, weighing over 400 lbs., measuring two feet square and four feet long.—Bales of Cotton can be made compact enough without compressing.

The construction of this press is such that it does not require a building expressly for it, as it may be placed in any barn or shed, and the horse may move in any direction, or at any distance from it; and when the bale is ready for delivery, it is discharged instantly, and the follower gradually recedes as the Hay is placed in the box.

The construction is so simple that any man can make a Press, or keep it in order.

The travel for a horse, in running up a bale, is fifty feet, while in a screw press the travel is one mile and a half, in running the screw up and down.

Report of the Premium Committee of the Agricultural Society of New York.

"The Lever Railway, Hay and Cotton Press, offered by Wm. S. Jack, of Catskill, New York, is a machine combining great power, convenience of operation, and constructed on true philosophical principles, and is a great desideratum to the river counties, and all places not contiguous to market, and also to cotton and hop growers, and the Committee think they do not exaggerate when they say it is, in their opinion, the perfection of machinery for that purpose. The Committee, therefore, award to Mr Jack a premium of $5."

There are several of this new style of Presses now in use near Portland, and a large number building in different parts of the State. The cost of the Press, with the right to use it, can be purchased at less than half the cost of any other press now in use.

For rights for a single Press, or Towns, Counties and States, application should be made to the subscriber JOHN COX Portland, Me. nov 18 taw6m
